Children can work independently

What can children do when the teacher is not working directly with them? This new membership service bulletin tells WHY children should develop independence; HOW that independence is developed in a group situation such as the classroom; GIVES SUGGESTIONS for many kinds of activities that all elementary school age children can carry on. This material on developing self-direction will suggest to parents ways children may work at home.

Published October 1952. Price 75¢. Lots of 25 or more 65¢.
